Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology

Editor-in-Chief
R. Hull
John Innes Centre, UK

Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology brings cutting-edge Chinese research to an international audience. The journal takes the very best papers published in Chinese in the Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology, translates them and makes them available to the international scientific community. Papers cover subjects such as biotechnology (cellular, chromosomal, enzymatic, genetic, and fermentation engineering) of agricultural plants, animals, and relevant microorganisms (including nitrogen fixing bacteria and pathogens), and related biochemistry and structural analysis.

Experimental Agriculture

Editor-in-Chief
Dave Harris
Bangor University, UK

With a focus on the tropical and sub-tropical regions of the world, Experimental Agriculture publishes the results of original research on field, plantation and herbage crops grown for food or feed, or for industrial purposes, and on farming systems, including livestock and people. It reports experimental work designed to explain how crops respond to the environment in biological and physical terms, and on the social and economic issues that may influence the uptake of the results of research by policy makers and farmers, including the role of institutions and partnerships in delivering impact. The journal also publishes accounts and critical discussions of new quantitative and qualitative methods in agricultural and ecosystems research, and of contemporary issues arising in countries where agricultural production needs to develop rapidly. There is a regular book review section and occasional, often invited, reviews of research.

The Journal of Agricultural Science

Senior Editor (Animal papers)
Julian Wiseman
University of Nottingham, UK

Senior Editor (Crop & Soil papers)
Robert E. L. Naylor
University of Aberdeen, UK

The Journal of Agricultural Science publishes papers concerned with the advance of agriculture and the use of land resources throughout the world. It publishes original scientific work related to strategic and applied studies in all aspects of agricultural science and exploited species, as well as scientific topics of current agricultural relevance. Specific topics of interest include: all aspects of crop and animal physiology, modelling of crop and animal systems, the scientific underpinning of agronomy and husbandry, engineering solutions, decision support systems, land use, environmental impacts of agriculture and forestry, impacts of climate change, rural biodiversity, experimental design and statistical analysis, the application of new analytical and study methods. The journal also publishes book reviews and letters. Occasional themed issues are published which have recently included centenary reviews, wheat papers and modelling animal systems. Themes in 2009 will include sulphur and plants and a continuation of the series on modelling animal systems.

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems

Editor-in-Chief
J. W. Doran
University of Nebraska, USA

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems (formerly American Journal of Alternative Agriculture) is a multi-disciplinary journal which focuses on the science that underpins economically, environmentally, and socially sustainable approaches to agriculture and food production. The journal publishes original research and review articles on the economic, ecological, and environmental impacts of agriculture; the effective use of renewable resources and biodiversity in agro-ecosystems; and the technological and sociological implications of sustainable food systems. It also contains a discussion forum, which presents lively discussions on new and provocative topics.

animal

The International Journal of Animal Biosciences

Editor-in-Chief

M. Doreau

INRA, France

Published for The Animal Consortium

www.animal-journal.eu

animal attracts the best research in animal biology and animal systems from across the spectrum of the agricultural, biomedical, and environmental sciences. It is the central element in an exciting collaboration between the British Society of Animal Science (BSAS), Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique (INRA) and the European Federation for Animal Science (EAAP) and represents a merging of three scientific journals: Animal Science; Animal Research; Reproduction, Nutrition, Development. animal publishes original, cutting-edge research, ‘hot’ topics and horizon-scanning reviews on animal-related aspects of the life sciences at the molecular, cellular, organ, whole animal and production system levels. The main subject areas include: animal breeding and genetics; nutrition; physiology and functional biology of systems; behaviour, health and welfare; livestock farming systems and environmental impact; product quality, human health and well-being.

The Antiquaries Journal

Editor
Kate Owen
The Society of Antiquaries of London, UK

Assistant Editor
Christopher Catling
The Society of Antiquaries of London, UK

Published for the Society of Antiquaries of London

The Antiquaries Journal reflects the multidisciplinary nature of the study of material culture, publishing a balanced mix of papers from all periods, from prehistory to the recent past. The journal seeks papers that address research questions from a variety of perspectives, combining, for example, historical, art historical, architectural, linguistic, archaeological and scientific data. It is essential reading for archaeologists, architectural and art historians and material culture specialists, as well as those involved in conservation in its broadest application.

The Journal will offer electronic access to all subscribers from 2009 onwards, with material to be published in two major releases in March and September. A 2009 subscription will include print and electronic access to volume 89 as well as electronic access to volumes 86 to 88.

Archeological Dialogues

Editors
Fokke Gerritsen
Netherlands Institute in Turkey, Istanbul, Turkey
Michael Dietler
University of Chicago, USA
Ton Derks
Free University, Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Archaeology is undergoing rapid changes in terms of its conceptual framework and its place in contemporary society. In this challenging intellectual climate, Archaeological Dialogues has become one of the leading journals for debating innovative issues in archaeology. Rooted in European archaeology, it now serves the international academic community for discussing the theories and practices of archaeology today. True to its name, debate takes a central place in Archaeological Dialogues.

arq: Architectural Research Quarterly

Editor
Richard Weston
Cardiff University, UK

arq acts as an international forum for practitioners and academics by publishing cutting-edge work covering all aspects of architectural endeavour. Generously illustrated throughout, arq is edited with busy practitioners and academics in mind. Contents include building design, urbanism, history, theory, environmental design, construction, materials, information technology, and practice. Other features include interviews, occasional reports, lively letters pages, book reviews and an end feature, Insight. Reviews of significant buildings are published at length and in a detail matched today by few other architectural journals. Elegantly designed, inspirational and often provocative, arq is essential reading (and Continuing Professional Development) for practitioners in industry and consultancy as well as for academic researchers.

Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies

Editor
G. R. Hawting
School of Oriental and African Studies, UK

Published for the School of Oriental and African Studies

The Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies (BSOAS) is an international journal publishing research and reviews in the arts, humanities, law and languages relating to Africa and Asia. BSOAS is distinguished by the quality of its scholarship and the range of its coverage. BSOAS welcomes submissions on the history, religions, languages, literatures, laws, artistic cultures, and related fields pertaining to the societies and countries of Asia and Africa. Authors are encouraged to write in such a way that they be understood by interested non-specialists. As well as research articles, BSOAS publishes short notes and communications, obituaries of significant scholars, and review articles that situate important new publications in their wider scholarly context. BSOAS also has a comprehensive section where new publications are reviewed or, when appropriate, more briefly noted.

International Journal of Asian Studies

Editor-in-Chief
Takeshi Hamashita
Ryukoku University, Kyoto, Japan

Managing Editors
Jason Bell
University of Tokyo, Japan
Akinobu Kuroda
University of Tokyo, Japan

Published in association with the Institute of Oriental Culture, University of Tokyo

International Journal of Asian Studies (IJAS) is an interdisciplinary, English-language forum for research in the social sciences and humanities. IJAS examines Asia on a regional basis, emphasising patterns and tendencies that go beyond the borders of individual countries. It is particularly interested in locating contemporary changes within a historical framework, especially using interdisciplinary approaches, and so promotes comparative studies involving the various regions of Asia. As well as encouraging contributions from western scholars, IJAS focuses attention on the work of Asian scholars, in order to encourage multi-directional communication across the international Asian studies community. It includes both themed and general issues.

The Journal of Modern African Studies

Editor

Christopher Clapham
University of Cambridge, UK

The Journal of Modern African Studies offers a quarterly survey of developments in modern African politics and society. Its main emphasis is on current issues in African politics, economies, societies and international relations. It is intended not only for students and academic specialists, but also for general readers and practitioners with a concern for modern Africa, living and working both inside and outside the continent. Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but aims at a fair examination of controversial issues in order to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. The journal also includes an invaluable book review section.

Epidemiology and Infection

Senior Editor/Managing Editor

Norman Noah
London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, UK

_Epidemiology and Infection_ publishes original reports and reviews on all aspects of infection in humans and animals. Particular emphasis is given to the epidemiology, prevention and control of infectious diseases. The field covered is broad and includes the zoonoses, tropical infections, food hygiene, vaccine studies, statistics and the clinical, social and public-health aspects of infectious disease. Papers covering microbiology and immunology which have an epidemiological relevance are part of this broad field. Papers come from medical and veterinary scientists worldwide. It has become the key periodical in which to find the latest reports on recently discovered infections and new technology. For those concerned with policy and planning for the control of infections, the papers on mathematical modelling of epidemics caused by historical, current and emergent infections, will be of particular value.

Fetal Medicine Unit, Royal Victoria Infirmary, Newcastle upon Tyne, UK

Fetal and Maternal Medicine Review publishes high-quality reviews drawn from all relevant disciplines in this rapidly expanding field. Each issue includes a selection of clinical and research reviews from experts in the field. Rapid publication and a deliberate preference for authors currently active in research ensures this journal has immediate relevance to contemporary clinical practice. Subject areas covered include fetal medicine, maternal medicine, neonatology, obstetric anaesthesia, epidemiology and basic science. It is essential reading for all engaged in the care of pregnant women and neonates, including obstetricians and neonatologists, postgraduates training for specialist careers, specialist nursing and midwifery staff.

Journal of Biosocial Science

Editor
C. G. N. Mascie-Taylor
University of Cambridge, UK

Journal of Biosocial Science (JBS) is a leading interdisciplinary and international journal in the field of biosocial science, the common ground between biology and sociology. It acts as an essential reference guide for all biological and social scientists working in these interdisciplinary areas, including social and biological aspects of reproduction and its control, gerontology, ecology, genetics, applied psychology, sociology, education, criminology, demography, health and epidemiology. Publishing original research papers, short reports, reviews, lectures and book reviews, the journal also includes a debate section that encourages readers’ comments on specific articles, with subsequent response from the original author. JBS is truly international both in terms of geographical areas covered and its contributors. Its reputation for high quality and outstanding scholarship has made it into one of the leading journals in the area of biosocial science.

Journal of Helminthology

Editor
John Lewis
Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

Journal of Helminthology publishes original papers and review articles on all aspects of pure and applied helminthology, particularly those helminth parasites of environmental health, medical or veterinary importance. Research papers on helminths in wildlife hosts, including plant and insect parasites, are also published along with taxonomic papers contributing to the systematics of a group. The journal will be of interest to academics and researchers involved in the fields of human and veterinary parasitology, public health, microbiology, ecology and biochemistry.

Microscopy and Microanalysis

Editor-in-Chief
Robert L. Price
University of South Carolina, USA

Published for the Microscopy Society of America

Microscopy and Microanalysis publishes original research papers in the fields of microscopy and compositional analysis. This distinguished international forum is intended for microscopists in both biology and materials science. The journal provides articles that describe new techniques and instrumentation, as well as the applications of existing methods to the imaging and analysis of microstructure. Microscopy and Microanalysis also includes review articles, letters to the editor, and book reviews.

Neuron Glia Biology

Editor-in-Chief
R. Douglas Fields
National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, USA

Stimulated by recent advances in neuroscience, Neuron Glia Biology serves the expanding need for a scientific journal recognizing that two-way communication between neurons and glia is essential for nervous system function. In focusing on cell-cell interactions in the nervous system, this journal offers an expanded scope that bridges what have traditionally been regarded as separate scientific disciplines. Neuron Glia Biology publishes outstanding original research on cell-cell interactions in the nervous system, using molecular, biochemical, electrophysiological, and imaging methods, to investigate interactions among neurons and among glia, and between neurons and other non-neuronal cells. Basic and clinical research reporting new findings on cell-cell interactions during nervous system development, in association with information processing, synaptic plasticity, myelination, and pathology are presented, along with special feature issues and concise reviews of emerging areas in the field.

Parasitology is an important specialist journal covering the latest advances in the subject. It publishes original research and review papers on all aspects of parasitology and host-parasite relationships, including the latest discoveries in parasite biochemistry, molecular biology and genetics, ecology and epidemiology in the context of the biological, medical and veterinary sciences. Included in the subscription price are two special issues which contain reviews of current hot topics in parasitology, one of which is the proceedings of the annual Symposia of the British Society for Parasitology, while the second, covering areas of significant topical interest, is commissioned by the editors and the editorial board.

Reviews in Clinical Gerontology

Editor
A. Bayer
Llandough Hospital, UK

Reviews in Clinical Gerontology brings together specially commissioned international reviews on recent developments in geriatric medicine (including rehabilitation, nursing care and psychiatry of old age) and in biological, psychological and social gerontology. The systematic coverage of the literature ensures that all the major topics of interest are reviewed during the course of a five-year cycle. The issues build into a valuable source of reference for everyone working with elderly people.

Quarterly Reviews of Biophysics

A review journal of biological function, structure and mechanism

Co-ordinating Editor
Bengt Nordén
Chalmers University of Technology, Göteborg, Sweden

Quarterly Reviews of Biophysics covers the whole field of biophysics, from ion channels to DNA topology and from X-ray diffraction to NMR. The journal has gained a worldwide reputation, demonstrated by its high ranking in the ISI Science Citation Index, as a forum for general and specialised communication between biophysicists working in different areas. The majority of reviews published are invited from authors who have made significant contributions to the field, who give critical, readable and sometimes controversial accounts of recent progress and problems in their speciality.

Published for The Classical Association

The Classical Quarterly has a reputation for publishing the highest quality classical scholarship for nearly 100 years. It publishes research papers and short notes in the fields of language, literature, history and philosophy. Two substantial issues (around 300 pages each) of The Classical Quarterly appear each year, in May and December. Given the quality and depth of the articles published in The Classical Quarterly, any serious classical library needs to have a copy on its shelves.

Mathematical Structures in Computer Science

Editor-in-Chief

G. Longo
CNRS and Ecole Normale Supérieure, Paris, France

Mathematical Structures in Computer Science is a journal of theoretical computer science which focuses on the application of ideas from the structural side of mathematics and mathematical logic to computer science. The journal aims to bridge the gap between theoretical contributions and software design, publishing original papers of a high standard and broad surveys with original perspectives in all areas of computing, provided that ideas or results from logic, algebra, geometry, category theory or other areas of logic and mathematics form a basis for the work. The journal welcomes applications to computing based on the use of specific mathematical structures (e.g. topological and order-theoretic structures) as well as on proof-theoretic notions or results. The journal will also accept contributions in new interdisciplinary fields bridging computer science, quantum physics, mathematics and information theory. In particular, papers on quantum information processing and communication, as well as on the related issues in quantum language design will be considered.

University of Wolverhampton, UK

Natural Language Engineering meets the needs of professionals and researchers working in all areas of computerised language processing, whether from the perspective of theoretical or descriptive linguistics, lexicology, computer science or engineering. Its aim is to bridge the gap between traditional computational linguistics research and the implementation of practical applications with potential real-world use. As well as publishing research articles on a broad range of topics – from text analysis, machine translation, information retrieval and speech analysis and generation to integrated systems and multi modal interfaces – it also publishes special issues on specific areas and technologies within these topics, an industry watch column and book reviews.

Robotica

Editor-in-Chief
G. S. Chirikjian
Johns Hopkins University, USA

An Official Journal of the International Federation of Robotics; an affiliated journal to CLAWAR

Robotica is a forum for the multidisciplinary subject of robotics and encourages developments, applications and research in this important field of automation and robotics with regard to industry, health, education and economic and social aspects of relevance. Coverage includes activities in hostile environments, applications in the service and manufacturing industries, biological robotics, dynamics and kinematics involved in robot design and uses, on-line robots, robot task planning, rehabilitation robotics, sensory perception, software in the widest sense, particularly in respect of programming languages and links with CAD/CAM systems, telerobots and various other areas. In addition, interest is focused on various Artificial Intelligence topics of theoretical and practical interest. Emphasis is placed on sound theory and realistic applications of robotics and AI in the general field of automation. In 2009, the new affiliation with the Climbing and Walking’ Robots Association (CLAWAR) will result in an extra issue per year.

New Theatre Quarterly

Editors
Simon Trussler
Rose Bruford College, UK
Maria Shevtsova
Goldsmiths College, University of London, UK

New Theatre Quarterly provides a vital international forum where theatrical scholarship and practice can meet and where prevailing dramatic assumptions can be subjected to vigorous critical questioning. It shows that theatre history has a contemporary relevance, that theatre studies need a methodology and that theatre criticism needs a language. The journal publishes news, analysis and debate within the field of theatre studies.

Theatre Research International

Senior Editor
Freddie Rokem
Tel Aviv University, Israel

Associate Editor
Elaine Aston
Lancaster University, UK

Published for the International Federation for Theatre Research

Theatre Research International publishes articles on theatre practices from all continents in their aesthetic, social, cultural, and historical contexts, their relationship to other media of representation, and to other fields of inquiry. The journal seeks to reflect the evolving diversity of existing as well as emerging critical idioms of theatre and performance studies, prevalent in the scholarship of differing inter-cultural and world contexts. The journal also publishes three kinds of dossier-styled articles where collaborative authorship is invited: comprehensive book review articles to reflect research in non-English-speaking areas of the world; in-depth dossiers reporting either on new, innovative and not readily accessible performances, or on innovative research projects. The journal includes a book review section, reflecting new research in the field.

Theatre Survey

Editor
Catherine Cole
University of California, Santa Barbara, USA

Published for the American Society for Theatre Research

Theatre Survey is chartered by the American Society for Theatre Research as a theatre history journal. Published twice a year, Theatre Survey provides rigorous historical and theoretical studies of performance across all periods, cultures, and methodologies; letters to the Editor; book reviews; lists of books received; and essays on new theatrical resources and exhibits. Recent issues have included position-pieces on theatre history and historiography in the New Millennium; and the subjects of other articles have ranged from postmodern Shakespearean production (on stage and in film) to the Kabuki theater; from medieval performance to the New Orleans Mardi Gras; and from issues of race, class, gender, and colonialism in performance to studies of John Rich’s Covent Garden account books.

Editors
David W. H. Walton
British Antarctic Survey, Cambridge, UK
Christina L. Hulbe
Portland State University, USA
Alan P. M. Vaughan
British Antarctic Survey, Cambridge, UK

Published on behalf of Antarctic Science Ltd, Cambridge

Antarctic Science provides a truly international forum for the broad spread of studies that increasingly characterize scientific research in the Antarctic. Whilst emphasising interdisciplinary work, the journal publishes papers from environmental management to biodiversity, from volcanoes to icebergs, from oceanography to the upper atmosphere, no other journal covers such a wide range of Antarctic scientific study. The journal attracts papers from all countries currently undertaking Antarctic research. It publishes both review and data papers with no limits on length, two page short notes on technical developments and recent discoveries, and book reviews. These, together with an editorial discussing broader aspects of science, provide a rich and varied mixture of items to interest researchers in all areas of science. One issue each year is normally devoted to a specific theme or papers from a major meeting. The journal will be published in full colour from 2009 onwards.

Journal of Systematic Palaeontology

Editor-in-Chief
Andrew B. Smith
The Natural History Museum, UK

Published for the Natural History Museum

Journal of Systematic Palaeontology publishes major papers describing new or poorly understood faunas and floras, or which use systematics in ways that significantly advance our understanding of palaeogeography, palaeobiology, functional morphology, palaeoecology, biostratigraphy or phylogenetic relationships. Shorter contributions on technical or conceptual issues relating to systematic methodology and conservation issues are also welcome. In this way the journal aims to demonstrate and strengthen the fundamental contribution systematics and collection-based data make to evolutionary palaeontology.

Proceedings of the International Astronomical Union

Chair
Ian F. Corbett, IAU Assistant General Secretary
ESO, Germany

Published for The International Astronomical Union (IAU)

Proceedings of the International Astronomical Union comprises high-quality and timely previews and reviews of fundamental and state-of-the-art astrophysical developments around the world, as presented at some ten IAU-sponsored conferences per year. The results are recorded in the Proceedings of its Symposia, in its Transactions A and B, and in its Highlights of Astronomy that contains the Proceedings of Joint Discussions held at the triennial General Assemblies of the IAU. Subjects covered by the IAU Symposia and conferences are fundamental astronomy; the sun and heliosphere; planetary systems; stars and variable stars; interstellar matter; the galactic system; galaxies and the Universe; optical and infrared techniques; radio astronomy; and space and high-energy astrophysics. The Proceedings of these are published under the auspices of the IAU, as important records of the status of those scientific fields.

The IAU Proceedings Series is essential reading for both professional astrophysicists and students, for finding comprehensive reviews and for studying new developments in specialized fields.

Bulletin of Entomological Research

Editor-in-Chief
William Symondson
Cardiff University, UK

Established in 1910, Bulletin of Entomological Research is an internationally recognised journal focusing on applied entomology from the traditional to the cutting edge. Bulletin publishes high-quality and original research papers, review articles and short communications concerning insects, mites, ticks or other arthropods of economic importance in agriculture, forestry, stored products, biological control, medicine, animal health and natural resource management. The scope of papers addresses the biology, ecology, behaviour, physiology, systematics and genetics of species, communities and populations with a renewed focus on the molecular biology and ecology of insects in an applied context.

Environmental Conservation

International Journal of Interdisciplinary Environmental Science

Editor
Nicholas V. C. Polunin
University of Newcastle, UK

Published for the Foundation for Environmental Conservation

Environmental Conservation is one of the longest-standing, most highly-cited of the interdisciplinary environmental science journals. It includes research papers, reports, comments, subject reviews, and book reviews addressing environmental policy, practice, and natural and social science of environmental concern at the global level, informed by rigorous local level case studies. The journal’s scope is very broad, including issues in human institutions, ecosystem change, resource utilisation, terrestrial biomes, aquatic systems, and coastal and land use management. Environmental Conservation is essential reading for all environmentalists, managers, consultants, agency workers and scientists wishing to keep abreast of current developments in environmental science. Selected papers are made freely available online as part of EC Perspectives.

International Journal of Tropical Insect Science

Editor-in-Chief
C. Borgemeister
icipe, Kenya

Published on behalf of The International Centre of Insect Physiology and Ecology (icipe)

International Journal of Tropical Insect Science is the only journal devoted exclusively to the latest research in tropical and sub-tropical insect science. Each issue brings you original, peer-reviewed research findings on tropical insects and related arthropods, with special emphasis on their environmentally benign and sustainable management. The journal’s scope includes arthropod ecology and biodiversity, ethno-entomology, arthropod taxonomy, integrated pest and vector management, and environmental issues.

The journal publishes research papers, short communications and scientific notes. The journal also includes reports of meetings and obituaries of prominent scientists, book reviews, and mini-review articles that are normally submitted at the invitation of the editors. Papers and abstracts are published in English.

The Lichenologist

Senior Editor
Peter D. Crittenden
University of Nottingham, UK

Published on behalf of The British Lichen Society

The Lichenologist is the premier scientific journal devoted exclusively to the study of lichens worldwide. As the leading forum for the dissemination of new concepts and topical reviews, The Lichenologist reaches more scientists concerned with the study of lichens and lichen symbionts than any other single journal. All aspects of lichenology are considered including systematics and phylogenetics; molecular biology; ultrastructure, anatomy and morphology; secondary chemistry, effects of pollutants and use as bioindicators; biogeography. In addition to standard length research papers, the journal also publishes Short Communications and Book Reviews. A monthly issue may occasionally be devoted to papers deriving from a symposium.

An online archive from 1958 to 2003 is now available for purchase.

Marine Biodiversity Records

Executive Editor
Ann L. Pulsford
The Marine Biological Association of the UK, Plymouth, UK

Published for the Marine Biological Association of the United Kingdom

Covering all aspects of biological diversity in aquatic environments, Marine Biodiversity Records is an exciting new title that serves as an online complement to its sister publication, Journal of the Marine Biological Association of the United Kingdom (JUMBA). Aquatic biodiversity is viewed as one of the key measures of the ecological health of the planet, and the journal recognizes a growing interest in research documenting the identification of marine organisms in locations where they had not formerly been found, or the effects of human activities on the ecology and distribution of aquatic species. Marine Biodiversity Records publishes articles covering all aspects of the diversity of species, ecosystems and the effects of natural events and human influences on the aquatic environment. The journal includes original research articles and commissioned reviews of changes in geographical range of species, the effects of the introduction of novel species to ecosystems, the effects of pollution on established ecosystems, policy and implementation of conservation issues, effects of other human activities, including aquaculture, biodiversity management and tourism.

Systematics and Biodiversity

Editor-in-Chief
Elliot Shubert
The Natural History Museum, UK

Published for The Natural History Museum

Systematics and Biodiversity is an international life science journal devoted to whole-organism biology, especially systematics and biodiversity. The journal records the diversity of organisms through taxonomic papers, which have broad biological and contextual significance, using descriptive and analytical approaches. The underlying basis of biodiversity is addressed through studies of systematic relationships, and of growth, form, adaptation and function, and through analysis of biodiversity patterns in time and space, especially with respect to environmental and human factors. Coverage also includes relevant theory and methodology developments in taxonomy and classification, and conservation biology.

Environment and Development Economics

Editor
Anastasios Xepapadeas
University of Athens, Greece

Published in association with the Beijer Institute of Ecological Economics, Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences

Environment and Development Economics is positioned at the intersection of environmental, resource and development economics. The Editor and Associate Editors, supported by a distinguished panel of advisors from around the world, aim to encourage submissions from researchers in the field in both developed and developing countries. The journal is divided into two main sections, Theory and Applications, which includes regular academic papers and Policy Options, which includes papers that may be of interest to the wider policy community. Environment and Development Economics also publishes Policy Fora (discussions based on a focal paper) and Book Reviews. From time to time the journal publishes special issues based on a particular theme. Recent special issues have included ‘Payment for Ecosystem Services’ guest edited by Erwin H. Bulte and David Zilberman, and ‘Infectious Diseases’, edited by Simon Levin and Anastasios Xepapadeas.

Published for the University of Washington
Foster School of Business

The Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis (JFQA) publishes theoretical and empirical research in financial economics. Topics include corporate finance, investments, capital and security markets, and quantitative methods of particular relevance to financial researchers. With a circulation of 3000 libraries, firms, and individuals in 70 nations, the JFQA serves an international community of sophisticated finance scholars—academics and practitioners alike. The JFQA prints less than 10% of the more than 600 unsolicited manuscripts submitted annually. An intensive blind review process and exacting editorial standards contribute to the JFQA’s reputation as a top finance journal.

Institutions are the stuff of social and economic life. The importance of understanding the role of institutions in economic growth is now widely appreciated. The Journal of Institutional Economics is devoted to the study of the nature, role and evolution of institutions in the economy, including firms, states, markets, money, households and other vital institutions and organizations. The Journal of Institutional Economics is an interdisciplinary journal that will be of interest to all academics working in the social sciences, particularly in economics and business studies. Contributions from politics, law, geography, anthropology, sociology and philosophy will also be welcomed. The Journal of Institutional Economics aims to provide all authors with an expert verdict on their articles within fifty days of submission.
Journal of Pension Economics and Finance

Editors
Steven Haberman
Cass Business School, City University, UK
J. Michael Orszag
Watson Wyatt, UK

The Journal of Pension Economics and Finance (JPEF) is the only academic journal focusing on the economics and finance of pensions and retirement income. The ageing population, together with the shrinking workforce, heralds a growing pensions crisis, which has become a key public policy issue in developed countries and elsewhere. JPEF provides a valuable and influential forum for international debate in this area.

The journal is co-sponsored by the International Organisation of Pension Supervisors (IOPS) and the OECD. JPEF publishes original research papers, covering a variety of topics, including pension fund management, the regulation of pensions, and pensions and labour markets. There is also an Issues & Policy section which includes papers reviewing the state of debate on current public policies and other major aspects of the pensions debate.

Anglo-Saxon England

Editors
Malcolm R. Godden
University of Oxford, UK
Simon Keynes
University of Cambridge, UK

Anglo-Saxon England is recognised internationally as the foremost regular publication in its field. In fact it is the only one which consistently embraces all the main aspects of study of Anglo-Saxon history and culture – linguistic, literary, textual, palaeographic, religious, intellectual, historical, archaeological and artistic – and which promotes the more unusual interests – in music or medicine or education, for example. Especially it seeks to exploit the advantages of a broadly based interdisciplinary approach. Each volume provides a systematic bibliography of all the works published in every branch of Anglo-Saxon studies during the preceding twelve months. The journal’s editorial board follows a strict policy of reviewing submissions, and invites contributions (in English) from experienced and promising scholars from anywhere in the world.

Central European History offers articles, review essays, and book reviews that range widely through the history of Germany, Austria, and other German-speaking regions of Central Europe from the medieval era to the present. All topics and approaches to history are welcome, whether cultural, social, political, diplomatic, intellectual, economic, and military history, as well as historiography and methodology. Contributions that treat new fields, such as post-1945 and post-1989 history, maturing fields such as gender history, and less-represented fields such as medieval history and the history of the Habsburg lands are especially desired. The journal thus aims to be the primary venue for scholarly exchange and debate among scholars of the history of Central Europe.

Associate Editor
Holger Nehring
University of Sheffield, UK

Corresponding Editor for North America
John Connelly
University of California, Berkeley, USA

Contemporary European History covers the history of Eastern and Western Europe, including the United Kingdom, from 1918 to the present. By combining a wide geographical compass with a relatively short time span, the journal achieves both range and depth in its coverage. It is open to all forms of historical inquiry – including cultural, economic, international, political and social approaches – and welcomes comparative and transnational analysis. One issue per year explores a broad theme under the guidance of a guest editor. The 2009 issue will examine the historical turning point of ‘1989’ from a Pan-European perspective. The journal regularly features contributions from scholars outside the Anglophone community and acts as a channel of communication between European historians throughout the continent and beyond it.

University of Durham, UK

The Journal of African History, celebrating 50 years of publication this year, publishes articles and book reviews ranging widely over the African past, from the late Stone Age to the present. In recent years increasing prominence has been given to economic, cultural and social history and several articles have explored themes which are also of growing interest to historians of other regions such as: gender roles, demography, health and hygiene, propaganda, legal ideology, labour histories, nationalism and resistance, environmental history, the construction of ethnicity, slavery and the slave trade, and photographs as historical sources. Contributions dealing with pre-colonial historical relationships between Africa and the African diaspora are especially welcome, as are historical approaches to the post-colonial period.

University of Vienna, Austria

Published for London School of Economics and Political Science

Journal of Global History addresses the main problems of global change over time, together with the diverse histories of globalization. It also examines counter-currents to globalization, including those that have structured other spatial units. The journal seeks to transcend the dichotomy between ‘the West and the rest’, straddle traditional regional boundaries, relate material to cultural and political history, and overcome thematic fragmentation in historiography. The journal also acts as a forum for interdisciplinary conversations across a wide variety of social and natural sciences.

Rural History is well known as a stimulating forum for interdisciplinary exchange. Its definition of rural history ignores traditional subject boundaries to encourage the cross-fertilisation that is essential for an understanding of rural society. It stimulates original scholarship and provides access to the best of recent research. While concentrating on the English-speaking world and Europe, the journal is not limited in geographical coverage. Subject areas include: agricultural history; historical ecology; folklore; popular culture and religion; rural literature; landscape history, archaeology and material culture; vernacular architecture; ethnography, anthropology and rural sociology; the study of women in rural societies; relationships between the urban and the rural; and the politics of rural societies. The journal accommodates varying disciplinary reference systems, and publishes book reviews and review articles.

Urban History occupies a central place in historical scholarship, with an outstanding record of interdisciplinary contributions, and a broad-based and distinguished panel of referees and international advisors. Each issue features wide-ranging research articles covering social, economic, political and cultural aspects of the history of towns and cities. The journal coverage is worldwide in its scope. In addition, it hosts innovative multi-media websites – including graphics, sound and interactive elements – to accompany selected print articles. The journal also includes book reviews, reviews of recent PhD theses, and surveys of recent articles in academic journals. An indispensable tool for urban historians worldwide, the journal’s annual bibliography features on average over 1,000 publications culled from monographs, edited collections and periodicals. From 2009 a fully searchable, consolidated bibliography will be available to subscribers online. A special issue on Transnational Urbanism in the Americas will be published in 2009.

Arabic Sciences and Philosophy

A Historical Journal

Executive Editor
Roshdi Rashed
CNRS, Paris, France

This international journal is devoted to the history of the Arabic sciences, mathematics and philosophy in the world of Islam between the eighth and the eighteenth centuries in a cross-cultural context. It publishes original studies of the highest standard on the history of these disciplines as well as studies of the inter-relations between Arabic sciences and philosophy, on the one hand, and Greek, Indian, Chinese, Latin, Byzantine, Syriac, and Hebrew sciences and philosophy, on the other hand. Arabic Sciences and Philosophy casts new light on the growth of these disciplines as well as on the social and ideological context in which this growth took place.

Science in Context is an international journal edited at The Cohn Institute for the History and Philosophy of Science and Ideas, Tel Aviv University, with the support of the Van Leer Jerusalem Institute. It is devoted to the study of the sciences from the points of view of comparative epistemology and historical sociology of scientific knowledge. The journal is committed to an interdisciplinary approach to the study of science and its cultural development – it does not segregate considerations drawn from history, philosophy and sociology. Controversies within scientific knowledge and debates about methodology are presented in their contexts.

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics

Editor-in-Chief
Mary McGroarty
Northern Arizona University, USA

An official journal of the American Association for Applied Linguistics (AAAL)

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics reviews research in key areas in the broad field of applied linguistics. Each issue is thematic, covering the topic by means of critical summaries, overviews and bibliographic citations. Every fourth or fifth issue surveys applied linguistics broadly, offering timely essays on language learning and pedagogy, discourse analysis, teaching innovations, second language acquisition, computer-assisted instruction, language use in professional contexts, sociolinguistics, language policy, and language assessment, to name just a few of the areas reviewed. It provides over 500 new citations each year. The 2009 volume covers the interface between language policy and language assessment, with guest editor Bernard Spolsky.

University of Edinburgh UK

English Language and Linguistics, published three times a year, is an international journal which focuses on the description of the English language within the framework of contemporary linguistics. The journal is concerned equally with the synchronic and the diachronic aspects of English language studies and publishes articles of the highest quality which make a substantial contribution to our understanding of the structure and development of the English language and which are informed by a knowledge and appreciation of linguistic theory. English Language and Linguistics carries articles and short discussion papers or squibs on all core aspects of English, from its beginnings to the present day, including syntax, morphology, phonology, semantics, pragmatics, corpus linguistics and lexis. There is also a major reviews section including, from time to time, articles that give an overview of current research in particular specialist areas. The second issue each year is guest-edited and devoted to a special topic.

Journal of Germanic Linguistics

Editorial Committee Chair
Robert W. Murray
University of Calgary, Canada

Published for the Society for Germanic Linguistics (SGL) and the Forum for Germanic Language Studies (FGLS)

The Journal of Germanic Linguistics (JGL) carries original articles, reviews, and notes on synchronic and diachronic issues pertaining to Germanic languages and dialects from the earliest phases to the present, including English (to 1500) and the extraterritorial varieties. Contributions are invited on the phonological, morphological, syntactic, and semantic analysis of these languages and dialects, as well as their historical development, both linguistic and textual. Especially welcome are contributions that address questions of interest to a broad range of scholars concerned with general issues in formal theory, sociolinguistics, and psycholinguistics. The language of publication is normally English, though manuscripts in German will be considered.

Journal of Linguistics publishes articles making a contribution to current debate in all branches of theoretical linguistics and in a range of theoretical frameworks. The journal also provides an excellent survey of recent linguistics publications, with around thirty book reviews in each volume and regular review articles on major works marking important theoretical advances.

‘The Journal of Linguistics is one of the top journals for theoretical linguistics. It’s chock full of new ideas and wonderfully free of theoretical orthodoxy.’
Ivan Sag, Stanford University

‘For the two decades that I’ve been a faithful reader of the Journal of Linguistics, I have been impressed by the consistent quality, breadth, and liveliness of its articles and reviews. JL neither specializes in one branch of linguistic theory to the neglect of others nor presents a single theoretical face to the world.’

Language Teaching

Surveys and Studies

Editor
Graeme Porte
University of Granada, Spain

Language Teaching is the essential research resource for language professionals, providing a rich and expert overview of research in the field of second-language teaching and learning. It offers survey articles on specific topics, languages and countries, and invites original research articles reporting on replication studies and meta-analyses. The journal also includes regional surveys of doctoral dissertations, topic-based research timelines and articles based on plenary conference speeches. Research-in-progress reports, themed book review articles and a list of publications received complement the content of each issue. A thorough peer-reviewing procedure applies to both the commissioned and the unsolicited articles. In the all-time favourite Annual Review of Research, Richard Johnstone provides expert commentary on a selection of the most significant work on second-language teaching and learning published in the preceding year.

Language Variation and Change

Editors
William Labov
University of Pennsylvania, USA

Rena Torres Cacoullos
University of New Mexico, USA

The official journal of the annual New Ways of Analyzing Variation (NWAV) conference

Language Variation and Change is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of linguistic variation and the capacity to deal with systematic and inherent variation in synchronic and diachronic linguistics. Sociolinguistics involves analysing the interaction of language, culture and society; the more specific study of variation is concerned with the impact of this interaction on the structures and processes of traditional linguistics. Language Variation and Change concentrates on the details of linguistic structure in actual speech production and processing (or writing), including contemporary or historical sources.

The Cambridge Law Journal

Editor
David J. Ibbetson
University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the Faculty of Law, University of Cambridge

The Cambridge Law Journal publishes articles on all aspects of law. Special emphasis is placed on contemporary developments, but the journal’s range includes jurisprudence and legal history. An important feature of the journal is the Case and Comment section, in which members of the Cambridge Law Faculty and other distinguished contributors analyse recent judicial decisions, new legislation and current law reform proposals. The articles and case notes are designed to have the widest appeal to those interested in the law – whether as practitioners, students, teachers, judges or administrators – and to provide an opportunity for them to keep abreast of new ideas and the progress of legal reform. Each issue also contains an extensive section of book reviews.

This exciting new journal provides a timely forum for the rapidly-expanding field of the rule of law, encapsulating cutting-edge study from all related disciplines. It is a unique centre for the exchange of views between academics and practitioners and gives focus to the promotion of the rule of law on both the national and international stage.

The journal aims to deepen and broaden the knowledge of the rule of law and its relation to economic growth, poverty reduction, promotion of democracy, protection of human rights and geopolitical stability. It invites and will publish academic articles, practitioner reports and commentary, book reviews and special volumes on major developments and themes in the rule of law field.

International and Comparative Law Quarterly

Editors
Catherine Redgwell
University College London, UK

Robert McCorquodale
Director of BIICL, UK

Published for the British Institute of International and Comparative Law

International & Comparative Law Quarterly (ICLQ) publishes papers on public and private international law and also comparative law. It has maintained its pre-eminence as one of the earliest and most important journals of its kind, encompassing human rights and European law. The journal encourages innovative and original articles that explore the interconnectedness between the legal subject areas, moving across the boundaries that divide the law in a way that provides vital analysis at a time when formal distinctions, in scholarship and between jurisdictions, are becoming less relevant. The ICLQ attracts scholarship of the highest standard from around the world, which contributes to the maintenance of its truly international frame of reference. The ‘Shorter Articles, Comments, and Notes’ and ‘Current Developments’ sections particularly enable the discussion of highly topical legal issues.

International Journal of Cultural Property

Editor
Alexander A. Bauer
Queens College, CUNY, USA

Published for the International Cultural Property Society

International Journal of Cultural Property provides a vital, international, and multidisciplinary forum for the broad spectrum of views surrounding cultural property, cultural heritage, and related issues. Its mission is to develop new ways of dealing with cultural property debates, to be a venue for the proposal or enumeration of pragmatic policy suggestions, and to be accessible to a wide audience of professionals, academics, and lay readers. This peer-reviewed journal publishes original research papers, case notes, documents of record, chronicles, conference reports, and book reviews. Contributions come from the wide variety of fields implicated in the debates – law, anthropology, public policy, archaeology, art history, preservation, ethics, economics, museum-, tourism-, and heritage studies – and from a variety of perspectives and interests – indigenous, Western, and non-Western; academic, professional and amateur; consumers and producers – to promote meaningful discussion of the complexities, competing values, and other concerns that form the environment within which these disputes exist.

International Review of the Red Cross

Editor-in-Chief
Toni Pfanner
The International Committee of the Red Cross, Switzerland

Published for the International Committee of the Red Cross

The International Review of the Red Cross promotes reflection on humanitarian law, policy and action in armed conflict and other situations of collective armed violence. A specialized journal in humanitarian law, it endeavours to promote knowledge, critical analysis and development of the law and to contribute to the prevention of violations of rules protecting fundamental rights and values. The Review offers a forum for discussion about contemporary humanitarian action as well as analysis of the causes and characteristics of conflicts to give a clearer insight into the humanitarian problems they generate. Finally, the Review informs its readership on questions pertaining to the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and in particular on the activities and policies of the Red Cross.

Editor-in-Chief

Larissa van den Herik
Leiden Journal of International Law, The Netherlands

Published for The Foundation of the Leiden Journal of International Law

Firmly established as one of Europe’s leading journals in the field, the Leiden Journal of International Law (LJIL) provides a forum for two vital areas – namely international legal theory and international dispute settlement. It is unique in providing the most comprehensive coverage of the world’s most important international tribunals in The Hague (such as the ICJ, ICTY, ICC and others) and elsewhere, as well as examining new trends in international legal thinking. LJIL is essential reading for academics and practitioners who need to stay abreast of recent developments in these areas.

The Netherlands Yearbook of International Law has been published since 1970. It has two main aims – it offers a forum for the publication of scholarly articles of a more general nature in the area of public international law, including the law of the European Union. In addition, it responds to the demand for information on state practice in the field of international law. Each Yearbook therefore includes an overview of state practice in the Netherlands, with statements of the government, treaties, legislation, judicial decisions and literature.

World Trade Review

Editor

L. Alan Winters
University of Sussex, UK

The World Trade Review was established at the initiative of the Secretariat of the World Trade Organization (WTO) in close cooperation with Cambridge University Press. It is an independent journal – the Editor and all but one member of the Editorial Board are drawn from university faculties – that includes articles written from economic, legal, political and inter-disciplinary perspectives on issues of relevance to the multilateral trading system. Priority is given to papers that, along with being academically rigorous, are also accessible to government policy officials and the wider public. The journal also includes shorter articles seeking to rebut or challenge published papers.

T. M. C. Asser Instituut, The Hague, The Netherlands

Marketed and distributed for T.M.C. Asser Press

The Yearbook of International Humanitarian Law provides a truly international forum for high-quality, peer-reviewed articles, commentaries on current developments, reports on state practice, and documentation that have international humanitarian law as their focal point. All aspects of international law applicable during international and non-international armed conflicts are covered, in addition to interesting and significant developments in related fields, such as international peace and security, international criminal law, human rights law, disarmament law and refugee law, inter alia. Distinguished by its topicality and contemporary relevance, the Yearbook bridges the gap between theory and practice and serves as a useful reference tool for scholars, practitioners, military personnel, civil servants, diplomats, human rights workers and students.

Victorian Literature and Culture

Editors
John Maynard
New York University, USA
Adrienne Munich
State University of New York at Stony Brook, USA

Victorian Literature and Culture encourages high quality original work concerned with all areas of Victorian literature and culture, including music and the fine arts. The journal presents work at the cutting edge of current research, including exciting new studies in untouched subjects or new methodologies. Contributions are welcomed from internationally established scholars as well as younger members of the profession. Review essays form a central part of the journal, and offer an authoritative view of important subjects together with a list of relevant works that serves as an up-to-date bibliography. The Works in Progress section allows the communication of parts of major works well in advance of their final publication. The Special Effects section allows publication of primary materials either previously unavailable or unknown to most readers.

Acta Numerica

Editor
Arieh Iserles
University of Cambridge, UK

Acta Numerica is the top-cited journal for the last two years in MathSciNet. Its annual collection of review articles includes survey papers by leading researchers in numerical analysis and scientific computing. The papers present overviews of recent advances and provide state-of-the-art techniques and analysis. Covering the breadth of numerical analysis, articles are written in a style accessible to researchers at all levels and can serve as advanced teaching aids. Broad subject areas for inclusion are computational methods in linear algebra, optimization, ordinary and partial differential equations, approximation theory, stochastic analysis and nonlinear dynamical systems, as well as the application of computational techniques in science and engineering and the mathematical theory underlying numerical methods.

The ANZIAM Journal

Editor-in-Chief
C. E. M. Pearce
The University of Adelaide, Australia

Published for the Australian Mathematical Society

The ANZIAM Journal considers papers in any field of applied mathematics and related mathematical sciences with the aim of rapid publication in print and electronic formats. Novel applications of mathematics in real situations are especially welcomed. All papers should include some indication of applicability, and an introduction that can be understood by non-specialist readers from the whole applied mathematical community.

Compositio Mathematica

Managing Editors
Bas Edixhoven
Leiden University, The Netherlands
Ben Moonen
University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands
Burt Totaro
University of Cambridge, UK

Produced, marketed and distributed for the London Mathematical Society

Compositio Mathematica is a prestigious, well-established journal publishing first-class research papers that traditionally focus on the mainstream of pure mathematics. Compositio Mathematica has a broad scope which includes the fields of algebra, number theory, topology, algebraic and analytic geometry and (geometric) analysis. Papers on other topics are welcome if they are of broad interest. All contributions are required to meet high standards of quality and originality. Publications in this journal benefit from the added value of careful reviewing and editing. The journal has an international editorial board reflected in the journal content. Access to the Compositio Mathematica archive is free online on the NUMDAM website.

Compositio is owned and published by non-profit organisations (the Foundation Compositio Mathematica and the London Mathematical Society) that use any surplus income from journal subscriptions to sponsor mathematics and mathematical research.

University of Warwick, UK

Mark Pollicott
University of Warwick, UK

Ergodic Theory and Dynamical Systems focuses on a rich variety of research areas which, although diverse, employ as common themes global dynamical methods. The journal provides a focus for this important and flourishing area of mathematics and brings together many major contributions in the field. The journal acts as a forum for central problems of dynamical systems and of interactions of dynamical systems with areas such as differential geometry, number theory, operator algebras, celestial and statistical mechanics, and biology.

Since 2008 EJAM surveys has been expanded to cover Applied and Industrial Mathematics. Coverage of the journal has been strengthened in probabilistic applications, while still focusing on those areas of applied mathematics inspired by real-world applications, and at the same time fostering the development of theoretical methods with broad range of applicability. Survey papers contain reviews of emerging areas of mathematics, either in core areas or with relevance to users in industry and other disciplines. Research papers may be in any area of applied mathematics, with special emphasis on new mathematical ideas relevant to modelling and analysis in modern science and technology and the development of interesting mathematical methods of wide applicability.

Journal of K-Theory

K-theory and its Applications to Algebra, Geometry, Analysis and Topology

Published for Independent Scholarly Online and Print Publishing (ISOPP)

Journal of K-Theory is concerned with developments and applications of ideas and methodologies called K-theory. They have their origin in the work of Alexander Grothendieck in algebraic geometry. Subsequently they have taken hold in various areas of topology, algebra, and analysis and in recent times have contributed to the establishment of noncommutative geometry. The journal welcomes submissions in any of the areas above where K-theory plays a role. It will also consider well written research-survey articles intended to provide nonspecialists with access and insight into topics of current research.

Cardiology in the Young

Editor-in-Chief
Edward J. Baker
Guy’s & St Thomas’ NHS Foundation Trust, London, UK

Cardiology in the Young is devoted to cardiovascular issues affecting the young, and the older patient suffering the sequels of congenital heart disease, or other cardiac diseases acquired in childhood. The journal serves the interests of all professionals concerned with these topics. By design, the journal is international and multidisciplinary in its approach, and members of the editorial board take an active role in its mission, helping to make it the essential journal in paediatric cardiology. All aspects of paediatric cardiology are covered within the journal. The content includes original articles, brief reports, editorials, reviews, and papers devoted to continuing professional development. High-quality colour figures are published on a regular basis, and without charge to the authors. Regular supplements are published containing the abstracts of the annual meetings of the Association for European Paediatric Cardiology, and the proceedings of the meetings organised annually by the Children’s Heart Institute of Florida, and Children’s Hospital of Philadelphia. The editorial team is currently looking to expand the number of Supplements published each year. These are supplied free to subscribers.

Cambridge Opera Journal

Editors
Steven Huebner
McGill University, Montreal, Canada
Suzanne Aspden
University of Oxford, UK

For over twenty years Cambridge Opera Journal has been the pre-eminent forum for scholarship on opera in all its manifestations. The journal publishes essays not only on all aspects of the European operatic tradition, but also on American opera and musical theatre, on non-Western music theatres, on contemporary opera production, and on the theory and historiography of opera. Carefully researched and often illustrated with music examples and pictures, articles adopt a wide spectrum of critical approaches. As well as major articles, each issue includes reviews of recent important publications in the field.

twentieth-century music

Editor
Charles Wilson

twentieth-century music is a unique publication dedicated to leading research on all aspects of the music of the twentieth century – a period which may be interpreted flexibly to encompass music from the late-nineteenth century to the early years of the twenty-first. The journal explores Western art music, music from non-Western traditions, popular music, film music, jazz, improvised music and performance practice. Whilst it does not style itself as revisionist, the journal is guided by the principle that existing assumptions about twentieth-century music and the ways in which it has been and is currently studied should be rigorously examined and re-examined.

The disciplines of economics and philosophy each possess their own special analytical methods, whose combination is powerful and fruitful. Each discipline can be enriched by the other. Economics and Philosophy aims to promote their mutual enrichment by publishing articles and book reviews in all areas linking these subjects. Topics include the methodology and epistemology of economics, the foundations of decision theory and game theory, the nature of rational choice in general, historical work on economics with a philosophical purpose, ethical issues in economics, the use of economic techniques in ethical theory, and many other subjects. A special issue will be published in 2009 looking at Neuroeconomics.

Philosophy

Editor
Anthony O’Hear
University of Buckingham, UK

Published for the Royal Institute of Philosophy

Philosophy is the journal of the Royal Institute of Philosophy, which was founded in 1925 to build bridges between specialist philosophers and a wider educated public. The journal continues to fulfil a dual role: it is one of the leading academic journals of philosophy, but it also serves the philosophical interests of specialists in other fields (law, language, literature and the arts, medicine, politics, religion, science, education, psychology, history) and those of the general reader. Contributors are required to avoid needless technicality of language and presentation. Each issue contains an editorial on a topic of philosophical or public interest, and a ‘New Books’ section. Recent contributors to Philosophy have included Michael Dummett, Noam Chomsky, Jurgen Habermas, David Wiggins, Graham Priest, Mary Midgley, P.M.S. Hacker, Jerrold Levinson and Mary Warnock.

The institutional subscription includes two supplements and a subscription to Think (see page 180).

Think

Philosophy for everyone

Editor
Stephen Law
Heythrop College, University of London, UK

Published for the Royal Institute of Philosophy

Think has been created to forge a direct link between contemporary philosophy and the widest possible readership. The central aim of the journal is to provide to a very wide audience – encompassing undergraduates, ‘A’ level students, students in further education and the general public – highly accessible and engaging writing by philosophers pre-eminent in their fields. Think also aims to counter the popular impression that philosophy is pointless and wholly detached from everyday life. Its contributors sometimes expose some of the bad philosophy which currently passes as accepted wisdom in certain circles (e.g. religious, scientific, anthropological, etc). Perhaps most importantly, Think gives contemporary philosophers the chance to help nurture and encourage philosophers of the next generation.

Think is available free to institutional subscribers of Philosophy (see page 177).

International Theory

A Journal of International Politics, Law and Philosophy

Editors

Duncan Snidal
University of Chicago, USA

Alexander Wendt
The Ohio State University, USA

Published with the support of the Mershon Center of the Ohio State University

International Theory (IT) is a peer reviewed journal publishing theoretical scholarship about the positive, legal, and normative aspects of world politics. IT is open to theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics and the international, broadly defined. Although we welcome work that uses empirical evidence to advance theoretical understanding, IT is primarily intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without expectation of extensive empirical analysis. IT’s over-arching goal is to promote communication and engagement across theoretical and disciplinary divides. As such, while open to work that speaks primarily to one scholarly community, IT puts a premium on contributors’ ability to reach as broad an audience as possible, both in the questions they ask and in their accessibility to other intellectual traditions.

Journal of Public Policy

Editor
Richard Rose
University of Aberdeen, UK

The Journal of Public Policy applies social science theories and concepts to significant political, economic and social issues and to the ways in which public policies are made. Its articles deal with topics of concern to public policy scholars in America, Europe, Japan and other advanced industrial nations. The journal often publishes articles that cut across disciplines, such as environmental issues, international political economy, regulatory policy and European Union processes. Its peer reviewers come from up to a dozen social science disciplines and countries across three continents, thus ensuring both analytic rigour and accuracy in reference to national and policy context.

Politics and Religion

Editors
Ted Jelen
University of Nevada, Las Vegas, USA
Sabrina Ramet
Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway

Published for the Religion and Politics Research Section of the American Political Science Association

This new peer-reviewed journal provides original research into all aspects of the relationship between politics and religion around the world. The impact of religion on political attitudes, decision-making, and public policy development is analyzed, with topics ranging from abortion laws, sex education in schools, and stem cell research to transnational terrorism, morality, social justice, and human rights. Politics and Religion is multidisciplinary and international in scope, with contributions coming from all relevant areas, including political science, law, philosophy, sociology, history, area studies, and economics. Studies of public religion, secular-religious conflicts, and political divisions within a religion – from within and outside the Judeo-Christian tradition, and including works from Islamic, Hindu, Buddhist and scholars of Eastern traditions – are especially welcome. Book reviews are also part of the journal’s coverage.

Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy

Editor
Paul M Salkovskis
Institute of Psychiatry, London, UK

Published for the British Association for Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapies (BABCP)

An international multidisciplinary journal aimed primarily at members of the helping and teaching professions. Features original research papers, covering both experimental and clinical work, that contribute to the theory, practice and evolution of cognitive and behaviour therapy. The journal aims to reflect and influence the continuing changes in the concepts, methodology, and techniques of behavioural and cognitive psychotherapy. A particular feature of the journal is its broad ranging scope – both in terms of topics and types of study covered. Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy encompasses most areas of human behaviour and experience, and represents many different research methods, from randomized controlled trials to detailed case studies. It also includes reviews of recently published literature in this field, brief clinical reports and papers focusing on empirically grounded clinical intervention.

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology

Editor-in-Chief
Alan Frazer
University of Texas, Health Science Center, USA

The official scientific journal of the Collegium Internationale Neuro-Psychopharmacologicum

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology (IJNP) serves as a major forum for the rapid publication and wide dissemination of high quality, influential research in neuropsychopharmacology, in the basic and clinical domains. The central focus of the journal is on research which advances understanding of existing and new neuropsychopharmacological agents, including their mode of action and clinical application, or which provides insights into the biological basis of neuropsychiatric disorders and thereby advances their pharmacological treatment. Such research might derive from the full spectrum of biological and psychological fields of inquiry, encompassing classical and novel techniques in neuropsychopharmacology, as well as strategies such as neuroimaging, genetics, psycho-neuroendocrinology and neuropsychology. IJNP’s rapid publication policy is facilitated by web-based submission and review, and the journal publishes the definitive versions of papers online, ahead of the printed issues. All papers are indexed in PubMed and Thomson Reuters Journal Citation Reports.

Visual Neuroscience

An international journal for experimental and theoretical research

Editor-in-Chief

Benjamin E. Reese
University of California, Santa Barbara, USA

Visual Neuroscience is an international journal devoted to the publication of high-quality reports of experimental and theoretical research in basic visual neuroscience. A major goal of publication is to bring together in one journal a broad range of studies that reflect the diversity and originality of contemporary research on neural mechanisms of vision. Contributions deal with molecular, cellular and systems-level processes in both vertebrate and invertebrate species. Studies based exclusively on clinical, psychophysical or behavioral data will also be considered if they address questions concerning neural mechanisms of vision.

Journal of Anglican Studies Trust

“I am delighted to commend the Journal of Anglican Studies as an important initiative in building conversation and understanding throughout the Communion.”
Archbishop Rowan Williams

Journal of Anglican Studies provides a serious scholarly conversation on all aspects of Anglicanism. It embraces history, theology, worship, ethics, scripture, canon law, aesthetics and education. Anglicans live enmeshed in many different cultural contexts. How their faith is expressed in the particular and how it is shared across the globe is a fundamental issue in this tradition. With its international reach, Journal of Anglican Studies is able to focus on this question and by doing so offers a distinctive and unique contribution to our understanding of Anglicanism today.

Scottish Journal of Theology

Editors
Iain Torrance
Princeton Theological Seminary, USA
Bryan Spinks
Yale Divinity School, USA

Published on behalf of Scottish Journal of Theology Ltd

Scottish Journal of Theology is an international journal of systematic, historical and biblical theology. Since its foundation in 1948, it has become established as one of the world’s leading theological journals. As well as publishing original research articles, most issues contain an article-length review of a recent book, with a reply from the author. Scottish Journal of Theology provides an ecumenical forum for debate, and engages in extensive reviewing of theological and biblical literature.

Ageing & Society

Editor
Tony Warnes
University of Sheffield, UK

Published for the Centre for Policy on Ageing and the British Society of Gerontology

Ageing & Society is an interdisciplinary and international journal devoted to the understanding of human ageing and the circumstances of older people in their social and cultural contexts. It draws contributions and has readers from many academic social science disciplines, and from clinical medicine and the humanities. In addition to original articles, Ageing & Society publishes book reviews, occasional review articles and special issues.

Consolidating its reputation for historical and comparative sociology of the highest order, European Journal of Sociology publishes articles of interdisciplinary scope which represent some of the best writing in the social sciences today. The journal has a strongly international perspective, with a special interest devoted to relations between culture, economy and politics, to the multiple citizenship and now publishes a third issue every year exclusively dedicated to state-of-the-art surveys, the elucidation of central concepts and review essays which explore key topics with reference to the most relevant recent publications.

BioSocieties

Editors
Ilina Singh and Nikolas Rose
London School of Economics, UK
Anne Harrington
Harvard University, USA

Managing Editor
Filippa Lentzos
London School of Economics, UK

Published for London School of Economics and Political Science

BioSocieties is an innovative new journal in the social sciences, dedicated to advancing analytic understanding of the social, ethical, legal, economic, public and policy aspects of current and emerging developments in the life sciences. These include genomics, neuroscience, psychopharmacology, biomedical and reproductive technologies, and biosecurity.

As the first journal of its kind, BioSocieties publishes scholarship across the social science disciplines, and represents a lively and balanced array of perspectives on controversial issues. In its first three years BioSocieties demonstrated the constructive potential of interdisciplinary dialogue and debate across the social and natural sciences. It is becoming the journal of choice not only for social scientists, but also for life scientists interested in the larger social, ethical and policy implications of their work.

BioSocieties is published quarterly, with occasional themed issues that highlight some of the critical questions and problematics of modern biotechnologies. Articles, response pieces, book reviews, and self-standing editorial pieces by social and life scientists form a regular part of the journal.

Du Bois Review: Social Science Research on Race

Editors
Lawrence Bobo
Stanford University, USA
Michael Dawson
University of Chicago, USA

Published for the W.E.B. Du Bois Institute for African and African American Research, Harvard University

Du Bois Review: Social Science Research on Race (DBR) is an innovative periodical that presents and analyzes the best cutting-edge research on race from the social sciences. It provides a forum for discussion and increased understanding of race and society from a range of disciplines, including but not limited to economics, political science, sociology, anthropology, law, communications, public policy, psychology, and history. Each issue of DBR opens with remarks from the editors concerning the three subsequent and substantive sections: STATE OF THE DISCIPLINE, where broad-gauge essays and provocative think-pieces appear; STATE OF THE ART, dedicated to observations and analyses of empirical research; and STATE OF THE DISCOURSE, featuring expansive book reviews, special feature essays, and occasionally debates.

Journal of Social Policy

Editors

Hartley Dean
London School of Economics, UK

Tanya Burchardt
London School of Economics, UK

A Journal of the Social Policy Association

The Journal of Social Policy carries high-quality articles on all aspects of social policy in an international context. It places particular emphasis upon articles which seek to contribute to debates on the future direction of social policy, to present new empirical data, to advance theories, or to analyse issues in the making and implementation of social policies.

Social Policy and Society

Co-Editors
Sharon Wright
University of Stirling, UK
Peter Dwyer
Nottingham Trent University, UK

A Journal of the Social Policy Association

Social Policy and Society is an international academic journal sponsored by the UK Social Policy Association. The journal welcomes stimulating original articles that draw upon contemporary policy-related research and associated developments in the social sciences. Each issue contains peer-reviewed articles reflecting topical debates and issues within social policy and uniquely, a themed section, edited by a Guest Editor(s). Every themed section includes an introductory piece, a set of peer-reviewed articles, a selected review of the key literature, plus a guide to key sources in the area.

All articles need to be of a high academic quality and should also be accessible to a wide readership which includes policymakers, academic staff and students within and beyond the United Kingdom. Social Policy and Society is part of the ‘Social Policy Package’ with the Journal of Social Policy and the Social Policy Digest.

Ordering information
The publications listed in this catalogue may be ordered from your subscription agent or directly from the appropriate Cambridge University Press contact as listed.

Prices
Prices are effective for 2009 volumes, unless otherwise specified, and are subject to change without notice. Subscriptions are available for ‘print only’, ‘electronic only’ and ‘print and electronic’ as indicated in the catalogue. Please note that reduced rate subscriptions do not give online access unless specified. Prices for single parts are available on request.
Electronic Site Licences
For queries on any aspect of electronic, single and multi site licences, in The Americas please contact Andrea Cernichiari (Tel: +1 212 337 5022. Email: acernichiari@cambridge.org) or elsewhere, Lesley Boyle (Tel: +44 1223 325535. Email: jnlsales@cambridge.org).

European Union
Subscribers in the EU should note that we must charge VAT (TVA, BTW, MOMS, MWST, FPA, TAV, IVA) at the appropriate rate. Any subscribers registered for VAT should quote their registration number. Ours is GB 823 8476 09.

Canada
Subscribers in Canada should note that we must charge GST.

Individual subscriptions
Certain journals have reduced rates for individuals, members of affiliated societies or students. Individuals wishing to take advantage of these rates must certify that the subscription is for personal use only, order directly from Cambridge University Press, and prepay by personal cheque or credit card. Students must provide verification of enrolment, such as a photocopy of a student ID card or letter from a tutor. We regret that these concessionary rates do not apply through agents or booksellers.

Despatch
The subscription price quoted includes delivery by air where appropriate.

Change of address
It is very important to notify Cambridge University Press promptly should your mailing address change or if there is an error in our labelling. Please give four weeks’ advance notice and be sure to include the journal title and your former mailing address as well as the new address. Please quote your customer number or include your complete mailing label with any correspondence.

Claims and cancellations policy
Claims for non-receipt of issues should be made within six months of the publication date, or upon receipt of the next issue, whichever is the sooner. Please note that, while every effort is made to maintain the advertised publication schedule, it may sometimes not be possible to despatch an issue in the month for which it had been advertised. No refunds of subscriptions will be made after the first issue of the year has been despatched.

Back volumes
Prices for back volumes (subject to availability) are provided upon request. Please contact the appropriate Cambridge University Press office for further details. In certain cases, other suppliers provide back volumes.

Course adoption and special sales
Frequently a Cambridge journal issue, such as a topical special issue or a general survey issue, is particularly suited for course adoption. Whenever possible, Cambridge University Press will offer substantial discounts on bulk purchases for course adoption and for promotional purposes. Please contact the appropriate Cambridge University Press office for further information.
Sample copies and brochures
Free sample copies are gladly supplied to librarians, subject to availability, for journals with three or more issues per year. Brochures giving more information are also available upon request. Contact the Cambridge or New York offices for further details. For most journals, a free sample issue is available online. Visit journals.cambridge.org/subjects

Advertising and list rental
Most Cambridge University Press journals accept advertising. Indexes
For most titles, an index to each volume together with a title page for binding is published with the last part of the volume, and is not available separately.

Books for review
Publishers are advised to send books for review directly to the appropriate Book Review Editor noted on the particular journal’s masthead, or contact Cambridge for the address. Do not send books for review to Cambridge. Names and addresses of Book Review Editors are available on our website at journals.cambridge.org

Manuscript submission
Authors are encouraged to submit papers to be considered for publication. Those wishing to contribute a paper to a Cambridge journal should consult a recent issue of that journal for instructions on manuscript preparation and the Editor’s address. These can also be found at our website at journals.cambridge.org. All manuscripts must be submitted directly to the Editor listed in the journal, NOT to Cambridge University Press.
